

Supplemental Figure S1. Contour graphs showing variation in the percent glutamic acid content in watermelon accessions across geographies and species. The levels not connected by the same lower case (continents) and upper case (species) letters are significantly different (Student t-test; $p=0.05$)